Al-Awda

Al-Awda Factories Company was established in 1977 on a small area not exceeding 200 square meters. The company started its journey thanks to the ingenuity of Palestinian hands, beginning with the manual production of certain types of pistachio and sesame sweets, which contributed to forming a unique identity for its products.

As the demand for these exceptional traditional sweets increased, the company had to adopt modern technologies. In 1984, the management made a strategic decision to purchase production lines for wafers and biscuits. With the continued growth in demand for Al-Awda's products, the old wafer production line was replaced with a new, fully automated one with higher production capacity. Renowned global company HASS was selected to supply the machinery, and production on this advanced line began in 1994, enhancing both efficiency and quality.

To ensure product diversity and meet the tastes of all ages and preferences, a new production line for pretzel biscuits was introduced in 1996, with a production capacity of approximately 650 kg/hour. With its high production capacity and superior quality, the factory was able to meet the Palestinian market's needs for pretzel biscuits, petit beurre, fish-shaped biscuits, and cookies.

In 2000, the company added another wafer production line, benefiting from the latest technologies to produce all types of wafers, including chocolate-coated wafers, paving the way for export to neighboring Arab countries. In 2001, a new line for producing Maamoul was imported from the global company RHEON, ensuring the integration of world-class technology and premium quality.

In 2003, the company added a new line for producing various types of ice cream, supplied by TETRA PAK, with a production capacity of up to 2,000 liters/hour. This allowed the production of a wide range of ice cream products, including sandwiches, Magnum bars, cones, as well as cups and other frozen derivatives. The ice cream production lines feature the latest advanced technologies.

In 2005, a new production line for Krembo was introduced. Continuing its development and product diversification, the company acquired a factory for producing innovative, healthy chips baked with electricity, avoiding the health issues associated with frying.

In 2010, the company achieved a significant milestone by producing natural concentrated juices in all flavors. The chips production line was imported from Jordan and installed at the company's headquarters in Deir al-Balah.

In 2018, a new factory was established in the city of Hebron, housing wafer production lines—the first of their kind in the Middle East—as well as production lines for chocolate, rolls, and cakes.

In 2024, the company is working on establishing a new factory in the Sultanate of Oman, reflecting its commitment to expanding into new markets and increasing its production capacity.
